Weak wages vs. Fed hiking.

- Fidelity's Denise Chisholm points out that the Fed hiking with wage growth in its current state has typically been a bullish backdrop for stocks.
- 'Historically, the weakest income-growth environments have often been followed by acceleration in both income growth and leading economic indicators.

Hormuz flows

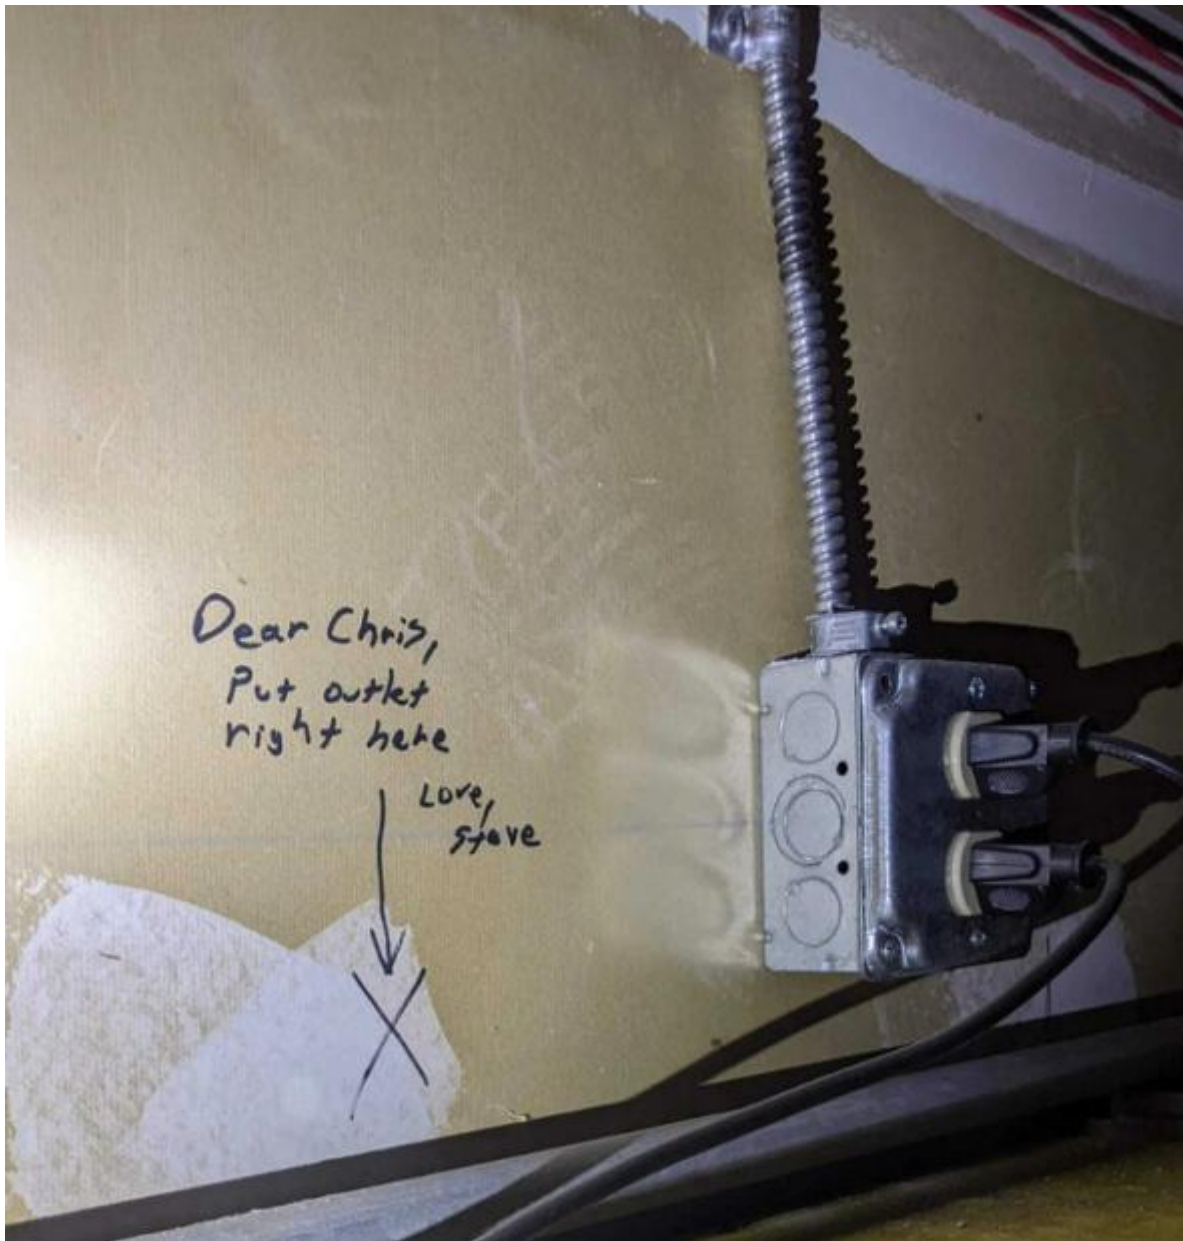

- Latest Hormuz oil flow run shows more than 13.5 MMbpd clearing the Strait as of yesterday on a 7dma (and as regular readers will know, day-ago numbers are usually an undercount). By far the biggest rise has come from Saudi Arabia's new Gulf loadings blitz.

IEWS, OUTLOOKS, & OPINIONS:

"It's costing more and more to get stuff in the hands of American shoppers. There's virtually no way for businesses to avoid paying more, and they're passing on the pain to consumers," per WSJ

"The U.S. economy is running hot and stuck on a hamster wheel as GDP growth must outpace borrowing costs, or risk getting sucked into a debt spiral," per FORTUNE

JP Morgan cuts 3Q EPS estimate on Tesla to $0.36 from $0.49. Consensus: $0.43.

"For the stock, shares are likely to remain anchored by long-term opportunities tied to robotaxi and Optimus coupled with other adjacent opportunities such as distributed inference and compute infrastructure and related feedback loops into the core auto business. That said, into 3Q26 EPS, we believe automotive deliveries, related profitability and updates on capex outlook are likely to drive shares, and we see risk of continued negative revisions to FY27 consensus."

CURRENCY & COMMODITY:

Dollar remains near a two-month high. DXY was around 101.1 today and is heading toward roughly a 1.7% September gain, potentially its strongest month since June. EUR/USD was near $1.139, while sterling hovered around $1.325.

Why it matters: The dollar's fundamental support has strengthened considerably over the past few weeks.

US CRUDE OIL FUTURES SETTLE 0.21% HIGHER AT $92.60/BBL, UP 19 CENTS

NYMEX Natural Gas October futures settle at $3.0000/MMBtu.

CRYPTOCURRENCIES, AI, DIGITAL, & BLOCKCHAIN

China's top intelligence agency warns anonymity in cryptocurrency is a "false proposition" and an "illusion."

CENTRAL BANK, FEDERAL RESERVE, LENDING & STIMULUS:

Fed's Cook: Fed would have limited tools to help in such a case. Lowering rates could fuel inflation.

Fed's Cook: Limited evidence to date that AI is changing labor market structure.

Fed's Cook: Those gains will not come in time to offset broadening inflation this year; signs of broadening pressure in inflation data

M&A, CORPORATE ACTION:

Mining's megadeal cycle is accelerating. Large miners are increasingly pursuing mergers, acquisitions and partnerships to secure global scale and access to critical minerals, according to Reuters. The strategic drivers include rising development costs, geopolitical risk and the need to control copper and other resources essential to electrification and AI infrastructure. Why it matters: Mining could remain one of the busiest areas of global M&A as companies increasingly prefer buying proven resources to developing projects from scratch. -Reuters

Satellite maker Astro Digital strikes a $587 million SPAC deal. Astro Digital agreed to go public through a merger with Proem Acquisition Corp. at an implied enterprise value of roughly $587 million. Why it matters: Space and defense technology continue attracting capital despite a more selective environment for SPAC transactions
